

2009 TAF Academy Briefing

Year One Results

Thursday, July 30 • 9:00 - 10:30am
Seattle Art Museum • 1300 First Avenue

Pioneering a new approach to public education

The high school graduation rate for students of color in Washington State is 60%. Low graduation rates like these have a devastating impact on our future.

We must not waste another moment with studies, committees, and policy discussions. We have data that leads the way. Now it's time to do the work.

The work has begun! In September 2008, TAF and Federal Way Public Schools joined together to pioneer a new approach to public education that prepares students of color for STEM (Science, Technology, Engineering & Math) fields using partnerships, research, best practices, rigor and authentic work.

Peter Berliner, Jane Broom,
Sheila Edwards Lange, Chris Korsmo,
Ken Myer and Constance Rice

invite you to a candid briefing on the first year of this education reform effort.

- Hear the successes, challenges and lessons learned
- Meet the Principal, teachers and students
- Get a preview of Year 2
- Become an active participant in the work

Join us July 30
at the Seattle Art Museum.

Register online by Monday July 27

<http://www.techaccess.org/events/TAFAbriefing.html>

This briefing is presented by:
TECHNOLOGY

